Todd is known as a pioneering civil rights lawyer, earning his law degree from Southern University’s School of Law in 1963. After serving as a lawyer in the U.S. Army, he joined the U.S. Attorney’s Office in Chicago, Illinois in 1967, and made history by developing the first criminal case against a Chicago policeman for deprivation of an individual’s civil rights. In 1969, Todd organized the first Civil Rights Office at the U.S. Attorney’s Office.

Todd was the first full-time black law professor at Northwestern University, where he taught from 1970 to 1974. He has argued cases before the Louisiana Supreme Court, the U.S. Court of Military Appeals, the Illinois Supreme Court and the U.S. Supreme Court. □ □

A powerful spokesman for civil rights, Todd was president of the Chicago chapter of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference in 1971 and president of Operation PUSH from 1983 to 1984, and spoke during Harold Washington’s mayoral campaign in Chicago. Now semi-retired, Todd is the recipient of more than 500 awards and honorary degrees, including being inducted into the Southern University Law Center Hall of Fame, National Black Alumni Hall of Fame and a Lifetime Achievement Award.
